A Flash Flood

- (1) Two students in Las Vegas were slightly injured in a flash flood last Thursday as they tried to help their friend mobilize his car.
- (2) They were driving down Pecos Road when it started to pour outside.
- (3) In desert areas, such as Las Vegas rain accumulates easily especially since the sewage system is not up to par.
- (4) While driving down this hilly road, the water was inching higher and higher.
- (5) Finally their car could no longer move because of the heavy rain.
- (6) Two students climbed out of their friend's vehicle through the window, so no water would touch the inside of the car.
- (7) In vain, they tried to push the car while the driver tried to accelerate.
- (8) When they finally gave up, the strength of the water swept the two students away.
- (9) They were tussled in the rough water.
- (10) Finally they were lucky enough to attach themselves to a tree and a light post.
- (11) A fire truck had picked them up and they were taken to the hospital for minor injuries.
