

Demonstrations

(1) As the National Finals Rodeo (NFR) made its way to Las Vegas, people for the ethical treatment of animals (PETA) prepared themselves for a full fledged demonstration.

(2) They incorporated a large television screen that vividly illustrates the abuse suffered by these farm animals in this week-long competition.

(3) They also devotedly distributed flyers that explained the exploitation and abuse of animals.

(4) They hoped to inform viewers of the cruelties and persuade them to stop supporting such treatment of animals.

(5) Some animal rights activists were so disturbed by the passiveness of the participants and its followers that they tried to free the bulls, horses, sheep, and other animals used in rodeo events.

(6) These demonstrations will never subside until there is some sort of compromise between PETA and the NFR.
